

Caroline Hunter

Caroline first learned about Rossbrook House during her time as a student at St. Mary's Academy. During this time she was taught by Sister Marylyn Gibney and had the opportunity to hear Rossbrook House co-founder, Sister Geraldine MacNamara, speak.

It was the St. Mary's connection that led to Caroline being recommended to Sister Lesley Sacoumen in the early 2000s when the Rossbrook House Board was looking for an accountant to join them.

Being a firm believer in providing youth with opportunities and giving back to the community, Caroline agreed to join and served for 15 years.

During her time on the Board, Caroline's appreciation grew for the work Rossbrook does and the people involved, prompting her to become a monthly donor and a member of the Legacy Circle. Caroline believes her gifts are a small way to help Rossbrook House continue.

"Rossbrook has been doing great work for 40+ years and I hope it continues well into the future to be a safe place for children and youth to belong, play, learn and become..."

When asked what advice she has for others considering making a planned gift, Caroline says;

"Do it! Pick an organization that is meaningful to you and specify your wishes in your will so that they are met. Rossbrook House is a wonderful organization and I plan to continue to support it throughout my lifetime and beyond."
